

A Focus on Feedback-- Using Scoring Guides/Rubrics

July 27, 2016

8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. (CDT)

Workshop #114-16

GRREC Office & Training Facility • 230 Technology Way • Bowling Green 42101

GRREC is pleased to present A Focus on Feedback- Using Scoring Guides/Rubrics. The seminar provides an opportunity for teachers and leaders to learn the “why” and “how” of scoring guide/rubric creation and implementation. Participants will engage with the facilitator, Lisa Almeida, each other and the work as they revisit the power of implementing high quality scoring guides/rubrics.

Objectives...

- Participants will explore the research on effective feedback
- Participants will examine the benefits of rubrics for students and teachers including how to use rubrics to improve-revise work
- Participants will learn how to design a rubric, as well as revise a rubric(s) to create more specific and aligned feedback
- Participants will create content specific rubrics that can be used immediately with students

About the Presenter...

As a recognized educator, Lisa Almeida has over two decades of experience delivering professional development and implementation support to educators. Most notably, she is known for effective leadership and teacher coaching in the areas of standards, assessment, data analysis, and professional learning communities. Ms. Almeida was the National Director of Professional Learning at The Leadership and Learning Center. Prior to her work as National Director, she was a Distinguished Professional Development Associate, a school and district administrator, and a teacher. Ms. Almeida is a contributing author to many publications: Navigating Assessment and Collaboration with the Common Core State Standards, Standards and Assessment: The Core of Quality Instruction, Interactive Viewing Guide; Data Teams in Action, and Ahead of the Curve: The Power of Assessment to Transform Teaching and Learning. She develops content in the areas of data-driven decision making, professional learning communities, standards-based reporting, and formative and performance-based assessments.
